

GOLF NAMES DUE FOR AMATEUR

ENTRIES CLOSE TO-MORROW WITH SECRETARY WATSON

Labor Day No Holiday for Procrastinators—Horace Hutchinson, the Earliest of Champions, Looking Over Our Courses Shinnecock Hills Wakes Up.

Labor Day will not be a day of rest for the preponderating golfers who want to play in the amateur championship but have neglected to mail their entries. The entries for the 1934 amateur championship will be held in a mailed entry on Tuesday, the rotary Warren in time on Tuesday morning. According to the latest advice the opening entry is in advance of last year. The opening of the Country Club at Bromfield championship begins a week from tomorrow. This week to be open to all entrants, a fact that has been extended to all players of the Massachusetts Golf Association who are equipped from four or under for the last three weeks.

Those of the Metropolitan Golf Association district who have been on the east ward course pronounce it to be in a condition to reflect credit on the club's golf committee. The third and eleventh of 108 and 365 yards, are especially good tests for the second shots and the tenth and sixteenth both machie shots., have a formidable chain of hazards for a ball that does not drop neatly on the green. The bogey of the holes as furnished on the cards is u.

—80 The par of the M. G. A. handicappers having regard to distances only and not configuration on any of the holes gives:

Out. 4-6 4-4 4-4 4-4 4-4 4-4 4-4

In. 4-4 4-4 4-4 4-4 4-4 4-4 4-4

As to talk of the winner there is an opinion it is an unusually hard nut to crack. Should the Western entry be representative Gardner, Evans and those other young marcs are deemed to have a great chance. The Massachusetts players are also reckoned to do well. As far as running, Brough, Behr and Travers will naturally be the M. G. A. favorites.

"A chief's aman was takin' notes," but while probably designed to be printed is not a compatriot of Bobby Burns, but the Englishman Horace Hutchinson, born at St. Andrews in 1893 and winner of the two oldest British amateur championships of record, at St. Andrews in 1936 and Hovrage in 1937. He was runner-up in 1935, 1936 and twice in the semi-finals; also leader

The two played at Brookline, Manchester by the Sea and Myopia and then proceeded to the Longfellow Golf and Country Club and the Stinson-Hill course. They have also played at Garden City and Ball's Bluff. They will play at the latter two places on Saturday. They have also been at Apawamis on Thursday. Today and to-morrow Mr. Hutchinson will play at the latter place. They will play four ball matches or foursums that will include Messrs. Macdonald, Whigham, and Macdonald. It is thought that on Tuesday night they will give a dinner at the Inland Club to Mr. Hutchinson and his family.

Very vast possibilities, it is said to have been Mr. Hutchinson's reply at the Stinson-Hill.

[illegible]

has apparently considered the prejudice long standing against crossing the Channel. The Frenchman, Harry Vardon represented England against Arnold Massy and A. Laflie in a four-hole play-off. The Frenchmen won by up, and they subsequently won a four-hole ball play-off. The scores were 69-68-69-68. Vardon and Vardon 77-71-144. The trouble course, where Massy has been the pro-champion, is 6,400 yards in length. The putting greens are small but in splendid condition. It has been a great success.

The Johnston and Country Club is to hold an open thirty-six holes medal play tournament to-morrow, in which a number of professionals are to play. The prize fund of $150 to the winner and entry is free.

A. F. Southland of the Englewood Golf Club follows the sun to give for the day. He has won the medal at Manchester by the Sea. On Thursday he was then thirty-six returned cards in a four-hole play-off. He was the winner of Mr. Southland, R. F. Tucker was the winner with 77-67-72.

LOOKS LIKE NO BADGER CREW.

Wisconsin, Discouraged. Not Showing. Come East Again.

HADISON, Wis., Sept. 5. After the showing of the Badger crew in the last year's regatta it is about certain that the Badger crew will not appear in the regatta.

There will not be represented in the Hudson River regatta next year, a great many people. The regatta, a family affair, is a picnic game, have set up a wall of protest against the trip. The Cardinal varsity and freshman crews will not journey eastward for some time unless sentiment changes.

There are even a great many students in the university who doubt the wisdom of sending crews down to the Hudson. There are more State editors who will not be so easily deceived, claiming it to be the height of folly to spend so much money to send crews to Poughkeepsie. It costs in the neighborhood of $3,500 annually to run the trip.

It has been suggested that a Western regatta be granted to the Hudson River regatta. This suggestion would be more satisfactory to Wisconsin students, but with whom the regatta has been started at Minnesota, they will set for several years before the Wisconsin people will be able to get anything to warrant the Hudsons maintaining them. If the Eastern trip is abandoned, the Wisconsin regatta will be a Wisconsin or else more attention will be paid to interclass and intercity affairs.

It is probable that the Wisconsin regatta will fail to bring out many new crews, so that the intercollegiate regatta will be a thing of neither.

Having received a severe shock from the loss of his father, who was directed the rowing destinies of Hager, Hager remained as coach and manager of the crew, and the departure of Dr. Hutchins in the middle of the year he returned to the student body as a whole. He had another year, but it was not until the following year that he began to meet with his endeavors to turn out the rowing crews of the lake. He had to go to Montana, where he has bought a farm.

The coach, who is engaged in many other things, has been engaged in many ways several weeks behind in his duties. The latestness of the lake in opening up then practised the rowing crew of the lake of Lake Mendota, on which they were training. Scarcely a week goes by without the rowing crew being hit by high waves. And then the members of the faculty do not fail to get in their own share.

Just who will succeed the former coach, and what will be the nature of the respective matter for the undergraduate body, are matters which are not yet decided. The efforts have been made as yet to get it so that it will be a year or more until school opens again in the fall.

NAMES DUE FOR AMATEUR
YES CLOSE TO MORROW
IF SECRETARY WATSON.

Day No Holiday for Procrastinating Horace Hutchinsman, The Earliest Champions, Looking Over Our Horses Shinnecock Hills Wakes Up.

There will not be a day-of-reckoning for amateur golfers who want to play amateur championship, but have to mail their entries. The entries are due tomorrow, but if advantage is taken of

...a mailed entry should reach the
...season in time on Tuesday morning
...to the latest advice the athletes
...in advance of last year. The women of the Metropolitan Golf Association, which is open to all entrants, a favorable report was extended to all players of the benefit. The Golf Association, however, has four or under for the last three years.
...country club at Brookline, Mass.

...the winner there is an opinion usually hard not to credit. Should earn credit for representative Gard- and those other young mar- to have a great chance. The assets players are also reckoned in the hunt. Travis, Herrenhof, Travers will naturally be the M. priorities.

amateur championships of recent years. Andrews in 1936 and Hoytja in 1937. Besides he was runnerup in 1939 in the semi-final; also leader on the first day of the open championship in 1937 in the 18-hole classic club competitions. He arrived in Canada with Lord and Massey on their famous yacht Sunbeam weeks ago and met C. B. Macdonald last week in Boston.

He played at Brookline, Manhattan and at the Crossed Creek and Hampton for games on the National Shinnecock Hills course. They played at Garden City and Babylon and for the rain they would play at Apawamis on Thursday.

the Garden City Golf Club for matches or foursmomes that will Messrs. Macdonald, Whigham, and Robert and George Watson. might they give a dinner at the hotel on Wednesday and he usually on Wednesday.

"Last possibilities," is said to have Hutchinson's reply at the Shinncliffe Golf Club to a question opinion of the National course. It was at the Meadow Brook Golf Club that he said a few days ago that he would go to the polo field to show the members a game is played. Mr Hutchinson quite been amazed at the growth this country since the days when he expound its mysteries.

be induced in under difficulties at the Shinnecock Hills Golf Club, where the clubhouse and clubhouse dressing has been laid on the fair which is to be harrowed in, and after dressing the entire course to the sand and grass. The work of rolling the course was in condition during the August tournament for five or six years, and the rolling and seeding should further improve the condition of the course for golfing for next season. The committee had thoroughly considered the views of the golfers on the rejuvenation of the turf, but in a project that involved a straggling in the course. This suggestion of the committee was to combine the second holes and to do away with started from the sixteenth tee late near the new green, the play led to the present sixteenth green. There would give a longer and more interesting hole, and while voted down by the players may still be carried out in 1912.

May has been the proudest ten years, is about the same. Knollwood, of 4,000 yards. The tees are small but in splendid shape. Massey has been around in 63.

Knollwood, Pa. Country Club is to open thirty-six holes medal play to-morrow, in which a number of men are to play. There will be $150 to the winner and entry is $10.

Southeastern of the Englewood follows the sun to golf for the rest of the year and he is now at the Sea. On Thursday he thirty-six returned cards in

DISLIKE NO BADGER CREW.
Discouraged. Not Likely to Come East Again.

even a great many students erity who doubt the wisdom of s down to the Hudson. There State editors who feel more the situation, declaring it to be of folly to spend so much money to Poughkeepsie. It costs thoroughness of $3,000 annually to

[illegible]

tion of Coach Ten Eck's lack of interest to the student body as a whole. Another year, he thought, he would have the opposition on his hands in his endeavors to turn out students at the university. He will save the fall and go out to Montana, as he bought a farm.

He has been handicapped in many ways. His first place on badgers are generally seen behind their competitors out on the water, due to the use of the lake in opening up. It is often retarded by the rough water of Lake Mendota, on which they swim. Scarcely a day goes by when two or three dives are eliminated. And then the members of the team do not fail to get in their best will succeed the former coach position that is serving as a specuer for the undergraduate body. have been made as yet to get a t is hardly likely that any will ntil school opens again in the